

Want to See Redd(s)?!

Trout Unlimited Seeks Volunteers for Stream Surveys!

Join trained volunteers as we go out to look for steelhead redds in the West Fork of the Smith River. Starting in February, volunteers will walk river sections on a regular basis to collect information that would otherwise be unknown.

Redds are extremely sensitive nesting areas and surveys allow for a better understanding of steelhead populations for future management without causing harm to the fish. All of the training will be provided. To learn more please contact, Lisa at LBeranek@tu.org.

Trout Unlimited works to conserve, protect and restore coldwater fisheries and their watersheds. Learn more at www.TU.org!
